WATCH OUT — ES SAYS /IZ/

It was getting dark. From deep in the trees came a loud howl, then a growl. What was that? I stared out the window but all I saw were shadows.

‘Can we go and look?’ I asked Mum.
She got me my thick coat and boots.
We set off down the dark path together. The air was cool on my bare cheeks.

Then Mum stopped and stared up at the bare branches. 'Look!' she said. I stared too. Something was up there in the dark. What was it?

Then I saw it. A big brown owl! It sat high up on a bare branch and stared right down at me. How rare! I stared back but I did not dare to get close.

Then the owl spread its wings and swooped down from the branch.
Wow! I froze. I did not dare to make a sound.

The owl sat on a branch next to a hole high in the tree. Out came soft cheeps. ‘Owlets!’ said Mum. ‘She must look after them!’ I peeked and saw fluffy white faces staring down at me.

The owl swooped back up with a mouse in its claws. The owlets crowded round, cheeping loudly. What a rare sight! Mum and I shared a smile.

We went home under the stars. ‘I want to go back and care for them,’ I said. Mum took my hand. ‘We will,’ she said. I smiled all the way home. The brown owl and her owlets were safe in the dark.
